Athens Dispatch Declares Slashing Advance Against Heights Surrounding the Coastal Town of Chimara, North of Captured City of Porto Edda is Uninterrupted Despite Replacement of Entire Units of Reinforcements

FALL OF KLISURA PASS IS BELIEVED CERTAIN

Athens, Dec. 13.—(P)—Fresh Italian troops thrown into the battle in Albania were reported today to have failed to halt the slashing Greek advance against heights surrounding the coastal town of Chimara, north of captured Porto Edda, despite desperate resistance.

Here and elsewhere the Greeks said that the Italians were replacing large units with new troops but that the latter were no more successful in checking the Greeks. One dispatch from the front said that after the Greeks repulsed Fascist counter-attacks at various points "the initiative along the entire front passed once again to Greek troops and the enemy is continuing to retreat."

(In London the Exchange Telegraph, British news agency, reported that Italian forces, after a fierce fight, have started withdrawing from Tepeleni, Albania. The Italians were said to be suffering heavy losses.)

Captured Italian officers were said by the Greeks to have expressed doubt of Italy's ability to continue the struggle after the likely fall of Klisura pass, where they had hoped to check the Greek advance toward Tepeleni, road junction 20 miles north of Greek held Argirocastro. Klisura is 10 miles northeast of Tepeleni.

"This statement coincides with other reports of internal dissensions in Italy," the Greeks said, "and a situation has developed creating insurmountable difficulties for the Italians who are trying to hold the line."

FIVE ARE KILLED IN HEAD-ON COLLISION

Bourne, Mass., Dec. 13.—(P)—Five men were killed, two were believed dying and two others were critically injured early today in a head-on collision of two automobiles. Five of the men were employees at nearby Camp Edwards.

The dead are: Charles Fama, 22, and Joseph Lopez, 21, both of East Wareham; Edward L. Morrison, 28, and Lyman Summers, 25, both of Falmouth, and Glendon Hopkins, 31, of Brockton.

There apparently were no witnesses to the accident which occurred two and a half miles out of the city. A truck driver came upon the wreckage of the two cars and telephoned Camp Edwards.

Minneapolis Infant Has Many Thirteens!

Minneapolis, Dec. 13.—(P)—On this Friday, the 13th, little Shirley Johnson has more 13's than you can shake a jinx at.

It was on Friday the 13th that Mrs. Johnson took out a hospitalization policy in January, 1939.

Shirley was born on Friday the 13th of September, 1940. She was born at 1 a. m., which appears as the 13th hour in some time reckonings. She weighed seven pounds, 13 ounces at birth. Today she is 13 weeks old and weighs exactly 13 pounds.

CAPITAL FLAGS AT HALF MAST FOR DIPLOMAT

British Embassy at Washington Awaits Word From London Before Making Funeral Arrangements for 58-Year-Old Lord Lothian

SUCCESSOR UNNAMED

Washington, Dec. 13.—(P)—The flags of the nation's capital flew at half mast in mourning for Lord Lothian today as the British embassy waited on word from London before making funeral arrangements for the 58-year-old bachelor diplomat.

With those arrangements still uncertain, much interest centered on whether the United States would make its customary final gesture of respect—offer a warship to take the envoy's body home.

At the State Department it was said unofficially that nothing definite had yet been done in the matter. The indications were that this decision probably would be left for President Roosevelt who was cruising in the Caribbean when a radio message informed him that the British ambassador had died suddenly in the early hours yesterday.

A few officials, however, expressed doubt, pointing out that any warship bearing Lord Lothian's body home would have to risk the mines, torpedoes and aircraft of a very active combat zone. They questioned whether Britain would accept the offer under such hazardous circumstances.

New York, Dec. 13.—(P)—The Berlin radio broadcast today the following comment on the death of Lord Lothian, British ambassador to the United States.

"While official German quarters decline to comment on the sudden death of Lord Lothian, it is understood that certain very interesting information have reached Berlin in regards to this event."

"Their contents are not revealed because, as it is said, the information must first be examined."

DUKE OFF ON SECRET JOURNEY

Former King, Who Has Been at Miami With Wife Flies Away From Florida Metropolis In Naval Plane for Undisclosed Destination, Amid Spreading Reports He Would Confer With President and Might Become Ambassador

STATE DEPARTMENT WITHHOLDS DETAILS

London, Dec. 13.—(P)—Official circles withheld comment today on American predictions that the Duke of Windsor might be named Lord Lothian's successor as British ambassador to Washington, but one reliable source expressed doubt that the former king would get the job.

It was learned reliably that the Duke's reported visit with President Roosevelt was arranged before Lord Lothian died and had no connection with the ambassadorship. It was believed that the meeting concerns naval base leases.

Miami, Fla., Dec. 13.—(P)—The Duke of Windsor flew away from Miami in a naval plane today for an undisclosed destination, amid spreading reports that he would confer with President Roosevelt and might become British ambassador to the United States.

"I am sorry I am unable to make any statement," he told newsmen before showing off in the launch that took him to the four engine navy patrol plane, "but I am in the hands of the navy for the day and I'm sure they'll take good care of me."

Speculation on the possibility that the former king might represent his nation officially at Washington was stirred afresh early today when the Duke's aide de camp, Captain Vyvyan Drury, disclosed through a press representative that Windsor was flying in a naval plane.

STATE GRANGE OPPOSES MILK CONTROL LAW

Wilkes-Barre, Dec. 13.—(P)—The Pennsylvania State Grange is opposed to the state milk control program.

Its opposition was recorded in a series of resolutions endorsed before the 68th annual convention adjourned.

Other resolutions protested "encroachment" of the federal government on state and local educational units, duplication of governmental services and "heavy" real estate taxes.

Kenzie S. Bagshaw, Hollidaysburg, was installed for his second term as worthy master.

MERCURY SINKS IN MANY AREAS OF THE NATION

Extreme Frigid Weather to Be Prevailing Over Great Plains and Upper Mississippi Valley With Blizzard in the Rockies

SNOW IS PROMISED

By The Associated Press
It was winter by the thermometer if not by the calendar in a wide area of the nation today.

Winter does not make its official debut for more than a week but wintry weather prevailed over the great plains and upper Mississippi valley. Pennsylvanians however were enjoying unusually mild weather for mid-December.

Sub-zero temperatures marked the progress of a cold wave across Montana, the Dakotas, and Minnesota. A low of -26 was reported at Warroad, Minn.

"Much colder" was the forecast for most of the central states today and the eastern states to-day. Warmer weather was predicted for the weekend.

The weather bureau at Chicago warned shippers against temperatures of 5 to 10 below in the northwest and west, zero to 10 above in the north, and 10 to 20 above in the south and east.

Snow blanketed the plains states. Rocky Mountain region, portions of the Lake region and the upper Mississippi, while rain pelted the Gulf states. Ohio valley and the Appalachian region.

Bern, Switzerland, Dec. 13.—(P)—Avalanches sweeping down Alpine slopes, where heavy snows were loosened by a warm sun, killed two persons and spread heavy damage today in several sections of Switzerland.

MOBILIZATION PLANS DELAYED

Washington, Dec. 13.—(P)—Complete mobilization of the final 96,000 National Guardsmen called up for a year's active service with the regular army must be postponed almost two months because of unforeseen delays in construction of camp facilities.

Delays for individual units will range from one week to two months, and the date for mobilizing the final group had to be set up from Feb. 3 to April 1.

War Secretary Stimson attributed the tardiness in completing the camps to adverse weather conditions, water shortage and similar causes. He quoted Isidor Lubin, labor statistics commissioner, as saying that labor difficulties were responsible for only one per cent of the delays.

The War Secretary said he could not determine immediately whether the delays in mobilizing the guardsmen would hold up induction of some 160,000 selectees who were to have donned uniforms next month. Guardsmen will be used to help in training men taken into the army under the selective service act.

NAZIS AIM BLOWS IN MIDLANDS

Sheffield, Great Steel Center in North of England, Draws Concentrated Fire of Germany's Night Raiders With Number of Buildings Reported Destroyed and Roads Badly Damaged or Temporarily Blocked

MANY CASUALTIES IN RESIDENTIAL CENTERS

London, Dec. 13.—(P)—Sheffield, great steel center in the north of England, drew the concentrated blows of Germany's night raiders during the night.

The city and the area surrounding it were acknowledged by the Air Ministry to have been the special targets of the Luftwaffe. A number of buildings were destroyed and roads damaged or temporarily blocked, the government reported.

From early last night until early today, large formations of raiders scattered incendiary, high explosive and delayed-action bombs on the city.

Exchange Telegraph, British news agency, said raiding planes machine-gunned firemen as they fought the blazes. Most of the fires were extinguished quickly, but some of the larger ones burned for hours.

The total killed and injured, Exchange Telegraph said, "while considerable, was amazingly low considering the consistency and weight of the raid."

A number of bodies have still to be taken from the widespread wreckage in commercial, shopping and residential areas.

On the offensive side the Air Ministry reported a raid on the docks at Brest, Nazi-held French port on the Atlantic, by "a small formation of aircraft of the coastal command."

Three New Wilmington, Pa. men are in the Warren General Hospital, suffering with injuries received at 5:30 o'clock last evening when the car in which they were riding was struck by a truck at the intersection of Route 6 and the Six Mile Run road at Tiona.

According to Private Bruce A. Reeder, of the state motor police, who investigated the crash, a sedan, driven by Pearson Cox, also of New Wilmington, pulled onto the highway directly in front of a National Transit truck, driven by Kenneth G. Conroe, of Tionawood, proceeding west on Route 6.

The sedan was struck on the side and carromed onto a nearby tennis court on the south side of the road.

The officer stated that Cox, who escaped injury, will be charged with failure to stop before entering a through highway.

The injured are Dorris Fehlman 59 who received possible fractures of the pelvis and skull concussion and is suffering from shock. He is the most seriously injured and his condition is reported as fair.

Clifford R. Cox 39 suffered possible fracture of both shoulders. William Rust, 28 sustained a fractured jaw.

Fire That Occurs During Delivery of Fuel Oil Poured By Mistake Onto Basement Floor Instead of In Tank Causes $2,000 Loss

SEVERAL ARE INJURED

Fire which occurred in the boiler room in the basement of the Victor H. Officelli greenhouse, 18 Hertzell street, about 9:15 o'clock last night, caused damage estimated by the proprietor at approximately $2,000 and resulted in minor injuries to three firemen.

Fireman Lester Nero was knocked unconscious and Fire Chief Douglas G. Kropf was thrown to the floor of the basement when an explosion occurred in the combustion chamber of the furnace a short time after the department's arrival. Fireman Albert White shot received an injury to his back when he fell on the sidewalk while running to make a hose connection. Nero was treated at the hospital and taken to his home, where he is reported to be feeling fairly well today.

According to reports, the fire occurred after the delivery of 3,000 gallons of fuel oil which was poured by mistake onto the basement floor instead of into the tank by a Bradford trucking crew.

Fire Chief Kropf said this morning that the first call received was to investigate smoke around the boiler and only the emergency truck responded. Upon his arrival, other trucks of the department were summoned.

Five firemen were in the boiler room when the explosion occurred in the combustion chamber of the furnace, splitting open the furnace doors and spreading flames. With Chief Kropf were Whiteshot, Nero, George Croft and Ed Springer. Only those mentioned were injured.

While the firemen confined the blaze to the boiler room, they remained on duty at the scene until about 6:25 o'clock this morning.

This fire was one of three which have occurred in the borough within the past 24 hours.

The first occurred at 5:58 p. m. (Turn to Page Seventeen)

200 REFUGEES DROWN AT SEA

Istanbul, Dec. 13.—(P)—Approximately 200 Jewish refugees, among nearly 400 bound from Bulgaria to Palestine, drowned when their ship broke to pieces in high seas near Istanbul, Turkish newspapers reported today.

The disaster was said to have occurred in the Sea of Marmara west of Istanbul when a motor ship flying the Uruguayan flag ran into a heavy sea and broke up near the shore.

Approximately 280 passengers including many children and their mothers were thrown into the sea without an opportunity to take to lifeboats, the newspaper Cumhuriyet reported.

The captain of the boat succored in swimming ashore and called government rescue crews to the scene. The sea was said to have been dotted with struggling refugees and debris.

About 180 survivors were picked up and taken to hospitals.

BROWN MILLER REPORTED ILL SEEKS RELEASE

Harrisburg, Dec. 13.—(P)—Judge Howard W. Hughes has fixed December 23 to hear arguments in the plea of Roy E. Brownmiller, former secretary of highways, for release from Dauphin county prison, where he is serving a year on a charge of permitting payroll padding in Luzerne county in 1938.

Brownmiller's attorney, J. Dress Pannell, petitioned Judge Hughes at his Washington, Pa. home, to free Brownmiller after serving less than seven weeks, because of ill health. He entered the jail October 28.

The petition said that the Schuylkill county Democrats, who served as highway secretary during the last half of the Baile administration, was 50 years old and had been informed by his physician "that his physical condition is such that the further he continues his confinement will seriously endanger and undermine his general health and will result eventually in a complete physical breakdown and permanent serious injury."

District Attorney Carl E. Shelly, who prosecuted Brownmiller the first of a dozen Democrats to be tried following a grand jury investigation of "campaign charges" hurled in the 1935 elections, declined to say today whether he would oppose the granting of a parole.

Unbroken Peace Treaty Between Two Great War Chiefs to be Commemorated Tomorrow

Washington, Dec. 13.—(P)—Two free governments—the United States of America and the Iroquois Confederacy—will commemorate officially tomorrow for the first time in 146 years the unbroken treaty of peace between their two great war chiefs of that day, George Washington and Onondaga.

Solemn ceremonies climaxed by presentation of the Great Father's annual title of "Six Nations" will take place in the community house on the Seneca reservation 26 miles northeast of Buffalo.

Patriarchs of the venerable confederacy of Onondagas, Senecas, Cayugas and Oneidas who doubled in 1734 when the police men always warring with each other were at last long in a world new to them. They wanted this year's observance of their ancient pledge to keep the peace made official.

Tomorrow government representatives will present to the chiefs of the six nations individual gifts of one bolt of calico each in token of the United States promise of an annual subsidy of $4,500 worth of "clothing domestic animals, implements of husbandry and other utensils suited to their circumstances." Later they will distribute among the New York reservations 29,456 yards of calico, or 6 yards for each of the 1,966 Indians.

Report of Year's Activities Are Presented at Annual Meeting Held By Warren Co. Boy Scout Heads

H. L. Banghart was elected president of the Warren County Boy Scout Council at its annual meeting held last night at the North Warren Community House. He has been a member of the local Scout Council for the past twenty years and for the past sixteen has served as chairman of the advancement committee.

In token of appreciation of the eight years of faithful service of the retiring president, E. M. Caughey, a beautiful hand carved plaque was presented him. No other award of this kind has ever been made previously.

The annual report of the council, which was presented by Scouts of Troop 17 of Sugar Grove, was made from a large cut out map of the United States. Highlights of the report revealed consistent progress for the year, among which were the council's selection as one of twenty-two demonstration councils for camping, an increase in camping attendance of 25%, increased Scout advancement and an indication that the local Scout council will complete the year with an all-time high in Scout membership, one new Cub pack and three new Scout troops having been organized and another Cub pack and another troop expected to be organized before December 31.

Veteran awards were presented by Carl W. Rogers for ten years of service to H. H. Gustin, E. H. Cornish, L. R. Ralston, O. C. Tritt, George Harolomplous, Robert Nelson; for fifteen years, to Leo Morrell, and E. D. Wetmore; for twenty years to Rev. W. O. Brainard, H. L. Banghart, Rev. E. P. Wroth and J. E. Hazeltine; twenty-five years to W. E. Yeager.

H. L. Blair, chairman of the training committee, presented Scoutmaster's keys for efficient leadership and completion of the five-year training program to Everett B. Eaton, of Russell, and J. E. Springer, of Warren.

COLORFUL MUSICAL AT LIBRARY THEATRE FRIDAY AND SATURDAY
"Bittersweet"
Noel Coward, known to the screen as both actor and playwright is represented for the first time as a composer in his operetta, "Bittersweet", which opens Friday and Saturday at Library Theatre with Jeanette MacDonald and Nelson Eddy in the co-starring roles. The film is in technicolor.

Miss MacDonald is seen as Victorian belle Sarah Millick, and Eddy as her Viennese voice teacher, Carl Linden, with whom she clothes on the eve of her wedding to Harry Davenport, played by Edward Ashley. Sarah and Carl live an idyllic life in Vienna until an Austrian cavalry officer, Baron von Tranchik, played by George Sanders, begins paying her attention. Then comes the dramatic denouement.

Ian Hunter is seen as Lord Shayne, gambling opponent of Von Tranchik, and benefactor of Sarah and Carl. In comedy roles are Felix Bressart and Curt Bois as penniless musicians. Sig. Ruman as Herr Schlick, cafe owner, and Herman Bing as the marketkeeper. Also prominently cast are Fay Holden, Diana Lewis, Lynne Carver and Janet Beecher.

W. S. Van Dyke is directed with Victor Saville as producer. The screen play is by Lester Samuels. The Noel Coward score was arranged for the screen by Herbert Stothart, the stage singing eleven of the Coward songs.

VALUABLE OIL LANDS ARE SOLD

It was announced in Titusville yesterday that negotiations have been completed for the sale of the Perry E. Fogle farm in Triumph township to C. V. White, of Ojai, Calif., an experienced oil man, who will move to Pleasantville in the near future.

It was stated by an attorney in charge of the negotiations that Mr. White plans to clean out the wells on the Fogle farm to increase the present production, and stated that new wells will be drilled if the market warrants.

Another transfer of oil lands was completed this week with the sale of 300 acres on property originally known as the Weed farm, on the Titusville-Spring Creek road, to Mrs. Gergia M. G. Forman, of Buffalo.

There are 104 producing wells on the property, gas repressuring equipment and a casinghead gasoline plant. The new owner is the widow of George Forman, a well known oil man, and is principal owner of the Hedge Oil Co.

The part of the property known as the Weed farm was among the first to be developed in the Church Run excitement in the early sixties.

Forest Tree Seedlings for Spring Planting Should Be Ordered Now

For purposes of reforesting Pennsylvania, the nurseries of the Pennsylvania Department of Forests and Waters have an annual output of approximately 15,000,000 forest tree seedlings and transplants. It was announced today by W. H. Smith, district forester for the Warren area.

During the past 25 years, private land owners have planted over 150,000,000 trees that were grown in these nurseries. It does not pay to allow land to remain unproductive, Mr. Smith said. Trees planted now will bring a money return in the future. To plant trees, therefore, is good business, he pointed out.

The forest trees available for shipment in the spring of 1941 are listed below. Trees will be reserved in the order in which applications are received until the available supply of each species is exhausted. It is not too early now to order trees for planting in the spring of 1941. Mr. Smith said a large amount of orders are already on file. Only orders for the minimum of 1,000 trees in lots of 500 of each kind are acceptable, it was stated.

It is expected with normal winter conditions that white spruce transplants 2 1/2" and the following seedlings will be available: White pine, 3 years; Norway spruce 3 years; white spruce 3 years; pitch pine 3 years; pitch pine 2 years; Scotch pine, 2 years; Banks pine 2 years; Japanese larch, 2 years; black locust,

1 year. The Department of Forests and Waters cannot supply shade or ornamental trees shrubs or hedges for planting on any private property, it was stated. Private planters desiring trees for such use must secure them from commercial nurseries. The department does not sell fruit, mulberry or nut trees for orchard planting. Seedlings or transplants to be used for windbreaks or Christmas tree planting cannot be purchased from the state.

On request, the Department of Forests and Waters in Warren will furnish a list of dealers selling nursery stock for orchard, shade and ornamental plantings. Additional information can be obtained by writing to the district forester, Department of Forests and Waters, Warren.

BUNDLES GROUP REPORTS LARGE SUM RECEIVED

Members and friends of the Warren Chapter, Bundles for Britain, will be delighted with the results of the English Village bazaar, held last Friday afternoon and evening in the North Warren Community House.

The final report of the treasurer, Holgar Elmquist, shows the amount of sales and tickets to be $1,451.17, expenses, $218.33, contributions, $518.00, making a total net of $1,750.84. A detailed report is to be presented at the next chapter meeting, to take place immediately after the holidays.

The sewing, under the direction of Mrs. Otto Peterson, will be suspended until that time, but the knitting division and packing and shipping division will continue to function without a break in schedule. Knitting headquarters in Room 407 of the Warren Bank and Trust Company building will be open as usual from one until five o'clock, Monday through Friday. The same applies to the packing and shipping headquarters in the second floor of the United Refining Company building.

Everyone is asked to remember the appeal which came by wire from national headquarters last week, asking for more warm clothing, especially blankets. Those who have nothing of this kind to send and would like to make a contribution for the purpose, may send it to Mr. Elmquist, marked "special fund". The committee will be glad to call for clothing donations. Mrs. E. P. Worth is general chairman of the garment division, assisted by Mrs. E. E. Koebley and Mrs. H. P. Stone.

The chairman of the Warren Branch, Miss Gene Alden Walker, again asks the Times-Mirror to thank all those who contributed so generously and in so many ways to make the above benefit such a great success.

THE EGYPTIAN CAMPAIGN
The British victory over the Italians at the desert station of Sidi Barrani, as recorded in dispatches from London and Cairo, important as it is, doesn't in itself represent a disaster for the Fascists, but the lack of resistance may indeed portend a major catastrophe for Mussolini's dream of empire and control of the Mediterranean.

Foreign writers believe much will depend on the British ability to capitalize this achievement and carry the war to Marshal Graziani in his own Libyan stronghold. The Britons have made a brilliant start in capturing the chief Italian base in Egypt, together with thousands of prisoners and much booty.
Two huge armies are believed locked in this desert struggle.

Estimates of the number of men involved in the fighting in western Egypt and of the number of Italian troops in north Africa vary with the source of the information.

Neither side has ever released official figures on its own forces, but has estimated the size of the opposition from time to time. On October 26, for example, Virginia Gayda, authoritative Fascist editor, said the British were sending 30,000 reinforcements to Egypt to bolster the 260,000 he estimated were already there.

Prime Minister Churchill indicated at different times that Britain was moving thousands of men into Egypt to defend Suez. Slow getting started in this direction, the British worked swiftly, particularly after the fall of France; and great trans-Atlantic liners were pressed into service to transport men from New Zealand and Australia.

Since the British controlled the Mediterranean and the Suez canal, these troop movements apparently were so successful that unofficial estimates of British strength in Egypt ran as high as 500,000.

The Italian forces generally were believed to be about 260,000. Of these, the British estimated, about 80,000 marched into Egypt, spreading out from the main base at Sidi Barrani into fortified desert positions.

The British, of course, had obvious advantages in Egypt since they held the railway from Matruh to Alexandria over which supplies and especially water could be moved, while their fleet could shell reinforcements and supplies going to Marshal Rodolfo Graziani.

LORD LOTHIAN
Lord Lothian, British ambassador, news of whose death early yesterday morning at Washington was received in both United States and Great Britain as seriously handicapping the discussions under way to extend more aid to England, was popular alike with government officials and newspaper men at the capital.

It is said of him that when he called at the State Department, he talked freely with newsmen, sometimes "off the record," in contrast to the more formal and aloof attitude adopted by most previous British ambassadors there.

His passing is considered by many as another casualty resulting from the conflict in Europe. The problems of the war and especially those of getting material American assistance imposed a heavy strain on the ambassador and this was believed to have contributed to his demise.

Avoiding large social functions in favor of small dinner discussions with select groups of Americans, Lothian is said to have displayed an unusual understanding of Americans and American public opinion.

Informal and looking more like a middle western business man than a British ambassador, Lord Lothian cut through diplomatic red tape in favor of direct discussion with President Roosevelt, Secretary Hull and other officials on many problems.

If you must do your shopping on a Saturday, be reminded there will be but one more before Christmas, after tomorrow.

Better bank the furnace for another frigid blast

WAR TODAY
But Experts Hold Our Bombers Are Match for Best Washington, Dec. 13.—Nobody in authority will say one word for publication, but the real truth is that the fighting planes the United States is sending to England are not fit for modern aerial warfare.
This isn't true of the bombers.
The heavy-duty planes ranging from the giant flying fortresses on down are good enough to fight in anybody's war. But the fighters—the planes whose job it is to down enemy planes by gunfire—are sadly outclassed by the first-line planes of Britain and Germany.
Apparently this is largely because the U. S. Army has failed to co-ordinate the complicated job of plane design.
As experts explain it, the airplanes themselves—as airplanes—are 100 per cent all right. The trouble is that the business of designing flying machines, testing metals and improving engines has gone ahead faster than the business of fitting the planes with the right sort of armaments.
The result is that the American fighting plane is uniformly outgunned.
The whole trend in aviation, ornance today is toward greater hitting power—either heavier guns or more of them. The British got onto this about five years ago, when they began equipping their Spitfire and Hurricane fighters with eight machine guns apiece, four in each wing.
On trial, this worked very well.
But the British immediately began in looking toward the use of heavier guns. The Germans went to work along the same line, and presently were sending up planes which mounted small cannon. The French —who had done some experimenting along that line as far back as 1917-18—was perfected. So were various types of cockpit armor.

All of which, the experts remark, called for sturdier, heavier planes. If you're going to mount two, or four, or six heavy machine guns or small cannon on each wing of a plane, you've got to make that wing stronger. And that is where the American fighters are falling short.
For the most part, U. S. fighting planes carry much less armament than do the British or German fighters. Hence they are of lighter construction.
Consequently, the British are having a good deal of trouble adapting the fighters they're getting from the United States to the needs of modern aerial warfare.
These planes are under-gunned and under-armored. And it is extremely hard to re-arm and re-gun them, because in most cases they simply aren't sturdy enough to stand up under the heavier loads.
No nation has fully solved the problem of aiming a cannon mounted in a fighting plane, although the British are believed to have made the most headway. The man, who turns up with a gunsight as good in its field as the American Norden bombsight is the bombing field will give his

Planes Bring Modern War
To Ancient Battlefields

WARPLANES are flying over Greece, as pictured on the airmail stamp above, bringing 1940's conflict to the battlegrounds of dead civilizations.

But most of the planes are British or Italian. The Greek air force has only 120 airplanes.
The striking power of Greece is not in the air, but in its skirred Evzones, crack highland regiments, marksmen from the mountains. The Evzones were formed during the revolution of 1821, today have five regiments of light infantry in the Greek army. They are easily identified by white kilts, or "foustanelia," and by long-toed shoes.
Greece's army is small, poorly equipped. Full wartime strength is estimated at 120,000. Military service is compulsory, including two years' active duty, 19 years in first reserve and eight years in second.
The Greek navy consists of one cruiser, launched in 1910, 12 destroyers, six submarines and other smaller craft. A construction program to increase the navy was interrupted by the war.

Many New Books to Capture Christmas Spirit Added to Library Collection

In connection with an article in Thursday's paper calling attention to a Christmas table at the Warren Public Library, the following information has been submitted:

A fresh Christmas story which captures the old spirit is always in demand. New books of this type which have been added to the library's collection this year are "The Shining Tree"; "So Gracious Is the Time," by Laura Krey; "Happy Christmas" by Daphne Du Maurier; "Cherished and Shared of Old" by Susan Glaspell; "The Heart of a Child" by Phyllis Bottome; and "Sister of the Angels" by Elizabeth Goudge.

Titles which have received a great deal of attention from book reviewers are among the new books for circulation Saturday morning at nine o'clock. Those who enjoyed Fanny Kemble have been looking forward to Margaret Armstrong's new work, "Trelawny; a Man's Life." She has selected another fascinating figure whose life would challenge any biographer. She has met the challenge with a fine fusion of scholarship and dramatic creation in a book which should appeal especially to men readers.

There has been much speculation, written and spoken, about the cause of the fall of France. Rene Chambrun, a French soldier who is also the son-in-law of Pierre Laval, has with amazing vividness and sensitivity written his view of one of the biggest dramas the world has ever witnessed in "I Saw France Fall; Will She Rise Again?"

"In My Day and What It Means to You" Leo M. Cherne has presented a frank and rather cold-blooded appraisal of what measures our government would probably take to regulate the human material and business resources of the country in the event of war.

With his brilliant and incisive mind Lewis Mumford is leaving his mark on American thinking. His "Faith for Living" has brought many thoughtful comments to the library desk from nearly everyone who has returned the book. "The Culture of Cities," for circulation

Ali-We-Je Club Has Christmas Meeting And Guest Speaker

The Christmas meeting of the Ali-We-Je Club of the Y. W. C. A. was held last evening at the activities building, with a large number in attendance and the following committee in charge: Miss Mabel Nelson, Miss Callie Mead and Mrs. Mildred Norris.

Table decorations, in keeping with the Yuletide season, were most attractive. Mrs. Carl Lundahl, president of the Y. W. C. A. and a guest of the club, gave the invocation. During the evening, favorite Christmas songs and carols were sung by candlelight, with Mrs. Mabel Smith at the piano.

Miss Florence Bassett was the guest speaker. The composing of Christmas music and carols, something of the lives of the composers and the circumstances under which many of the favorite carols were written was presented in such an interesting way that their use will take on new interest for club members.

In keeping with an annual custom, a Christmas family was adopted by the club, with Mrs. Rachel Raisor, Miss Effie Paterson and Miss Rowena Sammel acting in the capacity of the club's Santa. Many articles of food, presents and clothing were brought by members to assist the committee in carrying out its plans.

During the business session, announcement was made of the Y. W. C. A.'s annual membership banquet taking place January 20; the nationwide banquet for all business and professional members on March 11, with the theme "Vitalize Democracy"; and of the blue triangle pins which may be purchased at the Y. W. C. A., proceeds from which are for emergency work in China and Great Britain.

Miss Effie Paterson was appointed to serve on the general committee for the annual membership banquet, and it was announced that the regular January meeting of the club will be omitted.

Pleasing Program Is Given for Party of I. T. Class Members

Sixty members and guests attended the annual Christmas party of the I. T. Class held in the Epworth Methodist church last evening. A very pleasing program was presented by Mrs. Andrew Thompson and Mrs. Harry Granquist.

Opening the program was a Christmas carol candlelighting ceremony, with the following as speakers: Mrs. Florence Streich, Mrs. Harold Richel, Mrs. Clarence Heald, Mrs. Roy Ryberg, Mrs. M. I. Harding, Miss Marion Heald, Miss Frances Harding, Mrs. Arthur Anderson, with Miss Geraldine Mahaffy as accompanist.

Miss Jean Ryberg played several piano selections, after which a play, "The Christmas Spirit," was given by the following cast: Mr. Grouch, Mrs. Harold Baldensperger; Mrs. Grouch, Mrs. William Granquist; Grouch Twins, Misses Lois and Ruth Ann Granquist; Bobby Grouch, Raymond Johnson; Grouch Meids, Miss Betty Anderson and Mrs. Wilbert Knapp; Sunny, Miss Frances

Nazi Salutes for Rumania's Young King Michael

King Michael of Rumania and Queen Mother Helene got a first-hand picture of German military might in their country when they were greeted by Nazi salutes from Hitler Youth Organization leaders during guard of honor review at Jassy, Rumania. Harding; the Christmas Spirit, Mrs. Andrew Thompson.

At the close of this pleasing performance, Mrs. Donnell Allen and Mrs. Charlotte Swanson directed the exchange of gifts and Mrs. Andrew Thompson distributed names for new "secret sisters" for the year, using small Christmas trees.

The final number of the evening's program was the serving of refreshments at a beautifully decorated, U-shaped table, with all the appointments in keeping with the seasonal motif. On the committee were Mrs. Kenneth Baldensperger, Mrs. Wilbert Knapp, Mrs. Elmer Peterson, Mrs. Frederick Baldensperger, Mrs. Christian Anderson and Mrs. Charles Knapp.

This is to be an open meeting for all Eastern Star members and the ladies are asked to bring table service and a dish of food characteristic of one of the following countries: Spain, Holland, Italy, Sweden, Ireland, England, or a traditional American food, with all dishes labeled. Instead of the usual gift exchange, members will bring a small coin for yarn for Bundles for Britain.

Dinner was served at 6:30 o'clock to about 30 members. The table was beautifully decorated with white Christmas trees, white and silver ornaments, and a center of evergreens with blue Christmas tree balls. Gifts were distributed to each member by Santa Claus.

After dinner, games were enjoyed, with prizes going to Mrs. Robert Trusler, Mrs. J. C. Allen, Mrs. Chris Moll, Mrs. Byron Ensworth, Mrs. Glen Morley and Mrs. Clara Head.

BY WM. E. MCKENNEY
America's Card Authority

James Thompson, president of the Central Ohio Bridge Association, the American Contract Bridge League unit in the Columbus, Ohio, district, is an enthusiastic fan. He would like to have the national tournament in Columbus in 1941. After I saw him play the hand shown today, I felt that the caliber of bridge in Columbus was such that the players there could be counted upon to present the finest competition.

The final contract was extraordinary, but let me say that several tables got into it. Thompson (West) ruffed the opening lead and cashed three top clubs, discarding three diamonds from dummy.

Then came the ten of hearts, which held, and a winning finesse of the jack. The ace of hearts was led from dummy and South ruffed with the ten of spades.

Thompson saw no hope in overruffing, so he let South hold the trick. South cashed the ace of spades, then realized that a spade continuation would let West run all of the clubs. He shifted to a diamond, and Thompson made a beautiful play by refusing to ruff

Now dummy was exhausted of diamonds. South, my partner, continued the suit, dummy ruffed low, led a heart for West to ruff with the nine of spades, and the last two spades were made by cross-ruff. Thus Thompson won 10 tricks.

NEWS AT GOULDTOWN IS OF INTEREST

The losing side in the recent contest at the Gouldtown Community church entertained the winners Saturday evening with a party held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. John B. Hellman. A program was given as follows: Short talk by Mr. Hellman; prayer, Mrs. M. M. Nicholson; song by group; reading, Violet Swanson; skit, "Why We Lost," Mrs. Nicholson; distribution of gifts by Santa Claus impersonated by Catherine Nicholson. A social time followed and refreshments were served. Songs were sung and pictures were taken of the group.

The Misses Vera and Violet Swanson spent the past weekend at their Gouldtown home. Mr. and Mrs. Melvin Swanson and family, of Frewsburg, N. Y., visited Mr. and Mrs. Walker Swanson and family last Sunday afternoon. Miss Catherine Nicholson was at home from Warren over the weekend.

SHERMAN BROWNS HAVE GOLDEN WEDDING DAY Word has been received here that Mrs. Ruth Dravo entertained at her winter home in St. Petersburg, Fla., on December 9 to honor the golden wedding anniversary of Mr. and Mrs. Sherman Brown, of Warren.

Golden flowers and candles were used to appoint the table, also a huge wedding cake decorated in gold and inscribed, "Congratulations, 1890-1940." Mrs. Wilson Walters and Miss Dorothy Hoskins, other Warren residents south for the winter months, presided at the table. The honored guests were the recipients of lovely gifts, cards, telegrams and flowers.

It is interesting to note that the day "was a beautiful one, and so warm that all wore light summer clothes" for the function.

Players Planning Many Activities In Early Part of Year

Through the very interesting issue of "Curtain Calls" distributed at Wednesday night's studio meeting to the Warren Players' Club, members were told that activities for the early part of 1941 are well under way.

There will be no January studio meeting because of the holiday rush and plans for the mid-year public production, but the season will be extended for one month for a meeting on June 4.

Public try-outs are to be announced soon for parts in the next public production, Eugene O'Neill's "Ah, Wilderness," to be presented in February under the direction of Mary Hubley. Margaret Wright will be production manager and Al Dold will have stage designing in charge.

In regard to the proposed studio session in June, it is announced that the playwright group will be in charge, producing at that time the winners of the one-act play competition. Manuscripts must be turned in no later than March 1.

Marian Schwab was in charge of the very entertaining production of Kenneth Home's "Yes and No," presented for this month's meeting. In the cast were Miss Schwab, Gerald McGee, Adelaide Crouse, Patsy McClure, Betty Ridelberger, Robert Whitehill and Roger Webster.

Prominently identified with the performance were the following members of the December production staff: Prompter, Dorothy Stewart; stage setting designed by Bob Davidson and Libane Cisswell and executed by these two with the assistance of Ann and Sidney Blackman and Billy McClure; lighting, Billy McClure; properties, Paul Gary, Dorothy Stewart, Laura Beckley, Frances Lavery, John Rossman, Jr., and Edwin Africa; make-up, Marian Schwab; costumes, Mary Hubley; sound and curtain, David Crouse; production manager, Jean Crouse.

Zontians Hostesses At Christmas Party For 26 Youngsters

At 5.30 o'clock Thursday afternoon in the First Presbyterian church, local Zontians entertained with their annual children's Christmas party. In attendance were 18 members, 15 guests and 26 children from Pleasant township. The children were seated along the sides of a horseshoe-shaped table, inside of which was a large Christmas tree and gifts of wearing apparel and toys for the young honored guests. Evergreens and red candles decorated the tables and American flags were placed at either side of the tree.

Mrs. Marguerite Painter led in singing familiar Christmas songs and several of the children gave impromptu recitations suited to the holiday season. To conclude, Santa Claus appeared to distribute the gifts.

This is the last club activity until after the holidays, when regular meetings will be resumed.

Desert war flared hot in western Egypt where fierce fighting was reported around Bugbug between Italian and British troops after the latter recaptured Sidi Barrani. Map shows the battlefield where Mussolini's forces that escaped capture are now retreating toward Libyan border.

If she loves beautiful hankies and appreciates the untold hours of fine, pains-taking hand work which goes into every hand-made China Hankie, "She'll" be delighted on Christmas morn to find Chinese Handmades among "Her" gifts.

Beautiful patterns, masterly executed on fine linen lawn abound, and importers tell us no more choice designs are to be had, and that Chinese Hankies by Dec. 24th will be as scarce as Eskimos at the Equator. To be wise, buy them now.

Cards all the more appreciated—enclose in each a China Hankie.

A Washington Daybook

By JACK STINNETT

WASHINGTON—National defense has a brain trust. Don't get the idea, though, that it's anything like the group that started the New Deal winging on its way.

The national defense brain trust is composed entirely of laboratory magic dabblers and workshop geni. The official name of this gray matter corps is the National Inventors Council. The chairman is Dr. Charles F. Kettering. There are 13 others in the group. And theirs is the darnedest job in the whole defense set-up.

If there is something that isn't on earth; if no one has ever thought of it before; even if no one knows whether it really exists—but it's needed—it's up to the council to produce it.

"What we need," says General Hopeful, "is a rocket torpedo that can be fired to a height of about five miles, and will level off, chase down a bombing plane and blow it to splinters."

And right away the inventors go to work.

"If we could just make airplanes out of plastics," says General Wisher, "and stamp them out at the rate of a thousand a day."

And another inventor, either on or under the direction of the council, starts retorts steaming and presses pressing.

Plastic Plane Is Near

THESE may sound like fictions, but the plastic plane is nearing reality and some experts say the aerial torpedo for defense against bombing attacks is just over the horizon.

These aren't the only duties of this new brain trust. One of the most important is sifting all ideas and suggestions that pour in from the public. Since the council's creation, more than 6,000 such ideas have collected and they are rolling in now at the rate of 125 a day—all dealing with methods for strengthening and speeding the nation's defenses. They range all the way from crackpot schemes that must have been conceived in a Welsh rarebit nightmare to practical suggestions from embryo Edisons who are willing to contribute their bit to giving the United States a little hypo in the national defense syccestakes.

All Are Secret

AT PRESENT all ideas are secret and will remain so until the council, working with its Army and Navy advisors, has waded through them and tossed them aside as useless or approved them and thrown them into the great defense hopper.

Some of them are as wild as flying submarines. Some examples: Steel ramps to be mounted on the schnozzles of whales trained to search out enemy submarines; sub-carriers—huge mother ships that carry a school of little guppy submarines in under-water stalls; cement sprays which, spread from planes, would turn the enemy into statues; and giant bear traps, whose jaws would snap up enemy tanks.

The list is endless but in spite of all the goofy ideas, there are plenty which are practical suggestions or hints that can be turned to use. Probably never in the history of this nation was there such a marshalling of ideas and inventions as that under the present program of this new brain trust.

U. S. Has Been Leader

ACCORDING to Dr. Kettering, what it takes to outstrip any aggressor nation in inventiveness and speed of production, this country has.

He points out that it was in the U. S. that the airplane, the light internal combustion engines and the high-test gasoline that runs them, the tank, the submarine, the machine gun and the automobile—to name only a few of the engines of war—were invented. The U. S. also is birthplace and home of mass production. The aggressor nations have appropriated all these to use in modern battles, says the doctor. But with a springboard start like that, he feels, we will always be ahead of the bounds of war.

Welles, Hull Grieve Death of Lothian

Solemn faces of Secretary of State Cordell Hull, left, and Undersecretary Sumner Welles expressed their grief in death of the Marquis of Lothian, British ambassador to the U. S. They were calling to pay their respects at the British embassy in Washington.

Guess Who They're Looking At?

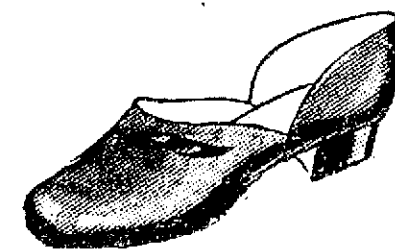

One look at the rapt ecstasy on these youngsters' faces should tell you that they are looking at Santa Claus. They were among 200 Dutch children, many of them war refugees, who took part in recent celebration of St. Nicholas Eve, traditional with New York Dutch since the city was New Amsterdam.

COUNTY LEADERS OF GIRL SCOUTS ENJOY MEETING

Warren County Girl Scout leaders and troop committee members were guests of the committee and leaders of Troop 5 at the Irvine-dale school Tuesday evening.

Miss Mary Holden, president of the Warren County Girl Scout Leaders Association, conducted a business meeting and appointed Miss Hulda Angermann, Miss Edith Chamberlain and Miss Helen Olson as a committee to study council constitutions and by-laws and prepare such for the local group.

Mrs. A. J. Weiler, Miss Gertrude White and Mrs. H. H. Hesch were named a committee to choose a leader as representative on the Girl Scout Council.

Interest groups followed, with Mrs. Leonard Abbott teaching knitting, Miss Elizabeth Lopez and Eleanor Pees teaching bandaging and Mrs. A. N. Correll leading a group discussion on troop management.

A committee headed by Mrs. J. S. Pees served refreshments at tables with gay Christmas decorations. Each member brought an article and the "white elephants" in Christmas wrappings, were piled around a lighted tree. This exchange of presents was the cause of much merriment.

The next meeting of the club will be a tureen supper held at the home of Mrs. R. W. Mackay, on Tuesday, January 14. Fern Mostert is the chairman of the committee, assisted by Elizabeth Lopez and Helen Olson.

4529 A PERT RUFFLED BASQUE FROCK

BY ANNE ADAMS

Your little girl will resemble her favorite story-book heroine in this pert frock by Anne Adams, Pattern 4529. Made in blithe basque style, the two-piece bias skirt flares for style and action. That pointed front waist-seam and the trim paneled bodice are most becoming; the sleeves are long and full or short and puffed. Enchanting pinafore touches are added by gay ruffles and a perky bow-tying sash. Another version of this pattern shows a contrast of ruffles, perhaps with a matching skirt. The optional collar might be in contrast too. If you want a more tailored frock, make the button-trimmed version without collar or ruffles. Bloomers or panties are included in this adorable style.

Pattern 4529 is available in children's sizes, 2, 4, 6, 8 and 10. Size 6, short sleeve dress takes 2 1/2 yards 35 inch fabric, long sleeve dress, 1 1/2 yards 34 inch fabric.

HOLLYWOOD SIGHTS AND SOUNDS

By ROBBIN COONS

HOLLYWOOD—A fella never can tell. The little girl he didn't even know back in his home town may be the very girl to help him click in Hollywood. Or vice versa.

Look at those bright kids of the dance floor. Billy Daniels and Mary Parker. Back in Fort Worth, Tex., Billy Daniels didn't even know there was a Mary Parker. He was a dancer even then, which is why Mary Parker knew there was a Billy Daniels. Mary not only knew it, but she said to herself, watching him dance, "Some day I'm going to dance on a stage with that boy."

Well, they met in Hollywood but not right away.

Billy came here first from Billy Rose's Casa Mañana at the Fort Worth fair to the Coconut Grove and thence to Paramount. Mary followed ditto from the Casa Mañana out by way of the local Paramount theater. She was labeled Punkins Parker then—because her real name (Mary Frances Robinson) wouldn't do. She was much too plump, she said, and all the dancing she knew was tap.

Each played minor parts in a few pictures before the day they met in the studio talent department. The talent coach assured Mary she'd never do for pictures because she couldn't talk anything except Texas.

They were helping LeRoy Prinz help John Hubbard learn some dance steps one day when, to annoy Prinz, they started clowning and gave Prinz an idea. Prinz took them to the Toccadero, and that started off the dance team of Mary Parker and Billy Daniels.

"Wardrobe is important to a dance team," they say, "and when we started at the Toccadero we were stuck for wardrobe. Mitch Leisen finagled gowns for Mary from the studio wardrobe department, and we found what a difference it makes to be well dressed."

AFTER the Toccadero engagement, Parker and Daniels (he's 28, she's 22) went on to success in New York and elsewhere, returned for another engagement here, and now are rehearsing for future New York and possible Fort Worth and Dallas shows. They're going to make a dancing movie "Shout" but for movie-acting in general—"we like dancing better."

Leisen is still their backer, in the company they call "Hollywood Producers." Leisen, who was once a movie costume designer and art director.

Their specialty is ballroom fairy tales. Ever, dancer must tell a story and every step of the dance must contribute to the telling. When they travel now it's with trunks of wardrobe. They aren't married "keep it romantic, not domestic," they say.

Warren Youth Enjoys Initial Experience In Military Life

According to Joseph B. Rodgers, of Smith's Corners, Warren, R. D. 1, who recently started his year of military training under the selective service act as a volunteer from Local Draft Board No. 1, describes his first experience in the army as "just the life for a single fellow."

In a letter received yesterday by R. C. Thompson, member of the draft board, the young man tells a little of his experience since going to Fort Mead, Md., where he is now stationed.

Rodgers and William Roman, who represented Draft Board No. 2, left Warren on November 27 for their year's training.

Rodgers' letter follows:
Fort Geo. G. Mead, Maryland.

Dear Mr. Thompson:
I just got settled so that I could let you know about we two boys that came here from Warren. My partner (William Roman) left here and is some place outside of Baltimore and just as soon as I find out where he is I will let you know.

The army life is just the life for a single fellow and I like it here very much.

They are teaching us how to dis-assemble guns here now and it proves to be very interesting work with this anti-tank company. I haven't much time and I'll write to you later about how things are going and I would like to hear from you, and this is my address:

Will Britain Cap Own Blitzkrieg Against Fascists By Bombing Italian Capital?

By NEA Service

Although Rome has been declared an open city it may yet become a target for the bombs of modern war in Britain's own blitzkrieg against her enemy in the south.

Bases occupied since the Italian attack on Greece have put R. A. P. planes and the British fleet within close striking distance of Rome. Other Italian cities, including nearby Naples, have had their first bombings.

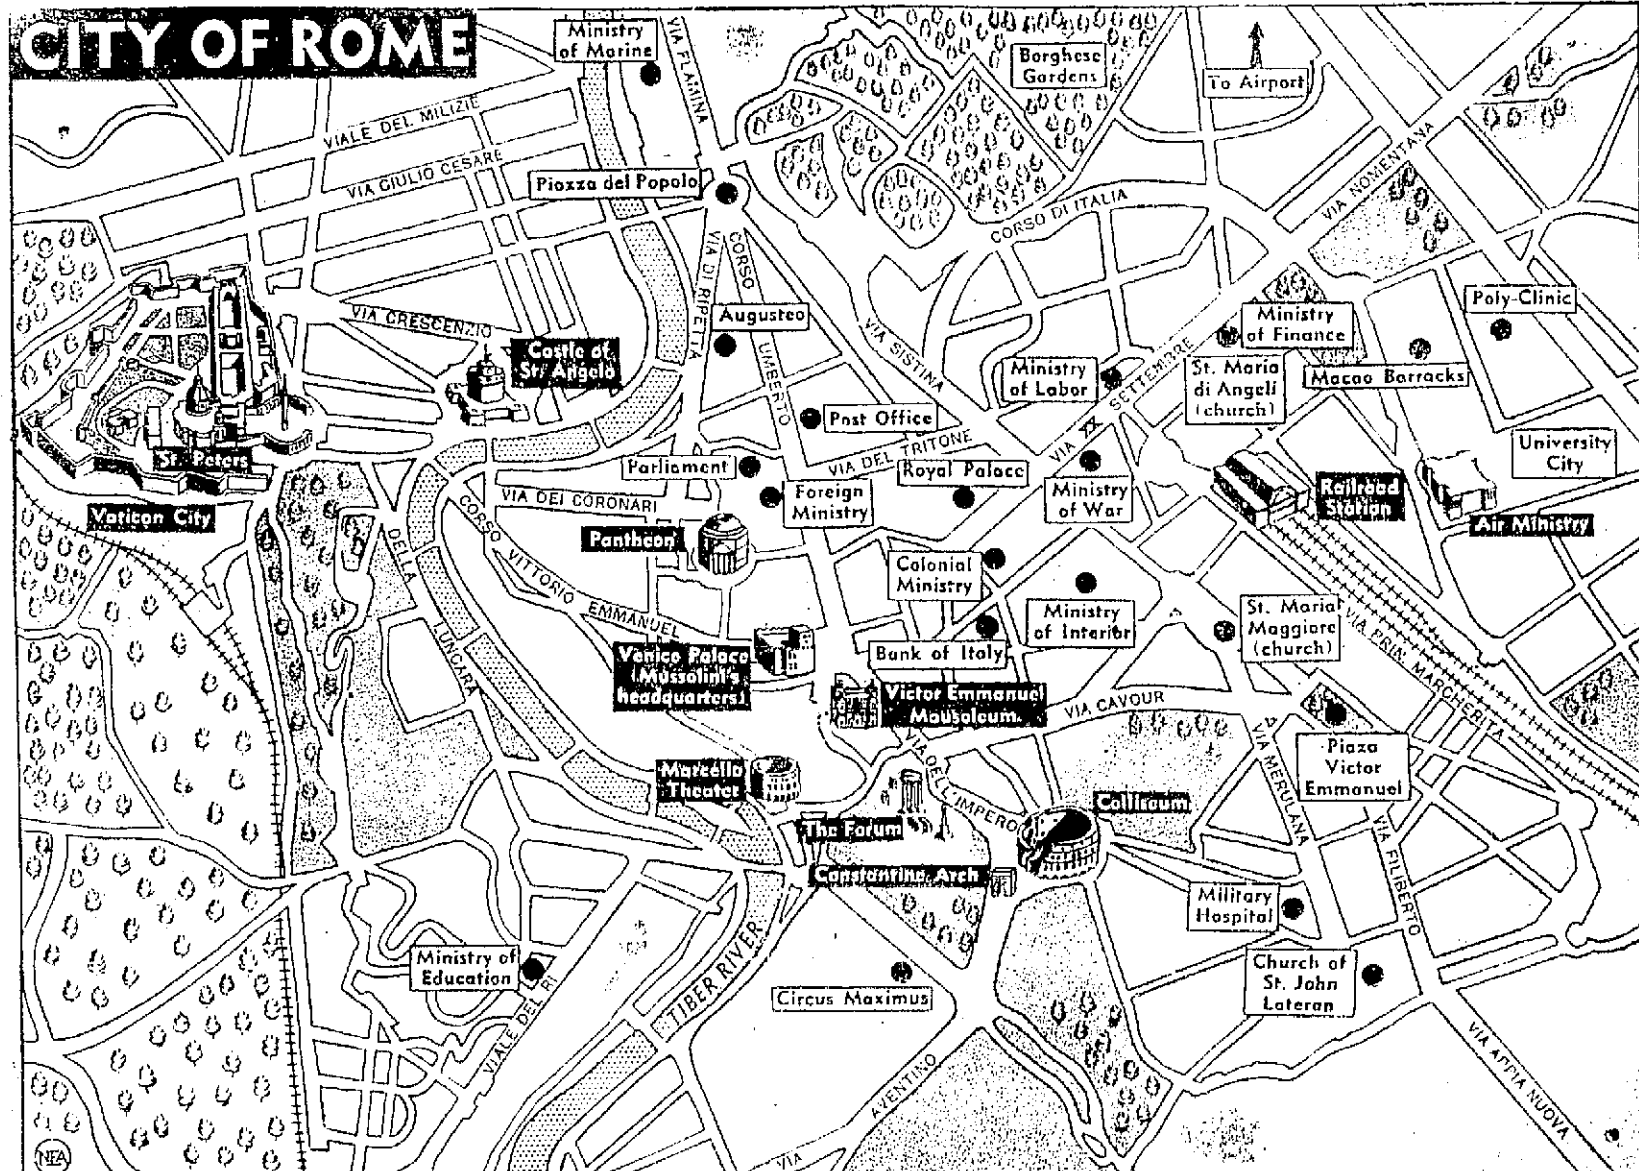

Center of modern Rome lies between two famous ruins of the ancient city—the Pantheon and the crumbling Colosseum. From the balcony of the Venice Palace, a few blocks up the Via Dell'Impero from the historic Forum, Mussolini now runs his own one-man forum.

Nearby is the winding Tiber, whose bridge and shores were once defended by storied Horatius. And across the river is Vatican City, capital of the Catholic world, perhaps the best reason why Rome has thus far escaped raids.

Military objectives in the city proper are few, the principal ones being the railroad station and Macao army barracks in the northeast section. Close by are many government buildings, the Royal Palace and University City, all likely to be damaged if bombing begins.

On Rome's outskirts, however, are air fields, troop concentrations, power stations and other objectives.

Government vessels of the United States and launches under 20 tons do not pay tolls in passing through the Panama Canal.

Who Killed Aunt Maggie?

By MEDORA FIELD

YESTERDAY: Bill has been accused by Lieutenant Gregory of murdering his wife, Sally, Aunt Maggie, and the most damning testimony has been that of Anderson, the butler. Sally had thought she might have been on the trail of the real murderer, and she has failed. Now the piece of telephone wire cut from the line, presumably by the murderer, has turned up in the pocket of one of the overcoats in the closet.

Chapter 32

"I'll show you," Anderson replied, disappearing through the door and returning a few moments later with a dark blue llama-cloth topcoat. Bill and I looked at it and then at each other.

"I take it you recognize the coat," Lieutenant Gregory observed.

"Certainly," said Bill. "After all, there were only two coats besides my own and both worn by men I see frequently."

"Then it is not your coat?"

"It is Kirk Pierce's coat," Bill told him. "Naturally I am aware that you could easily establish this fact without my telling you."

"Anderson," Lieutenant Gregory instructed, please ask Mr. Pierce to step here."

Kirk came in looking puzzled, but interested too. I purpose it had been pretty boring, just sitting around waiting or trying to make conversation with Alice. He glanced about the room in that quick way of his. "Sally," he said, nodding in my direction, then sat down in the chair Anderson pushed forward for him. His eyes caught sight of the coat thrown over a chair slightly in the background. "Looks like my coat," he observed casually, "but I guess not. Hung mine in the closet."

"It is your coat," Lieutenant Gregory told him. "We brought it in here because of something in one of the pockets. Would you have an idea what that would be, Mr. Pierce?"

"Could be most anything, I should think," grinned Kirk. "Gloves. Cigarettes. Papers. Handkerchiefs. Rolls of camera film. Might even find a cigar."

"No," said Lieutenant Gregory. "Guess again."

Kirk turned to me. "Not the clue, Sally?"

"Oh, no," I answered. "I only wish it were."

"Mr. Pierce," said Lieutenant Gregory, "have you seen this piece of wire before?"

Kirk looked at the wire blankly. "Looks like a piece of telephone wire to me," he said. "No, I have seen it before, I am not aware of the fact."

"You did not put it in the pocket of your coat?"

"I'm afraid I am past the age for collecting pieces of wire, Lieutenant," he replied, smiling.

"This is a serious situation, Mr. Pierce," he was rebuked. "The sooner you and the others here realize that fact, the better. We are trying to clear up a murder."

Kirk instantly wiped the smile from his face. "I assure you that you have my entire cooperation," he said.

"Perhaps then you will tell me what you know about the events of last night?"

Kirk raised his black eyebrows. "I know nothing," he said. "Except that I thought I heard some sort of commotion and came up from the game room to that little room at the head of the stairs."

"And what did you find when you came upstairs?"

"Practically everybody else crowded together and Mrs. Ambler on the floor."

"Aside from the fact that Mrs. Ambler was dead, did you notice anything else that struck you as unusual?"

Kirk hesitated for a moment, as though trying to recall the scene in all its details. "No," he answered. "I don't think so."

"Before that time, have you seen anything which might shed some light on the situation?"

"Nothing that would shed any light—no."

"Be more definite, please. You saw something which—"

The Scream

"I saw a door open and close with apparently no one behind it," said Kirk. "At least I found no one. Mrs. Stuart was with me at the time."

"Yes," I nodded. "I've already told them."

"Have you any suspicions with regard to the identity of the murderer? Mr. Pierce?" Lieutenant Gregory questioned.

"I have not," said Kirk positively.

"You have no cause to think that Mr. Stuart might have murdered Mrs. Ambler during the time he was absent from the game room?"

"What?" Kirk cried, half springing from his chair. "Certainly not."

"Thanks, old man," said Bill. "The Lieutenant seems to think differently."

"But it's impossible," Kirk insisted, even as I had done. "He couldn't have."

"Why do you say that he couldn't have?" asked Lieutenant Gregory.

"He is not the sort of a person to do such a thing."

"I've found that almost anybody is capable of murder under the proper set of circumstances," Lieutenant Gregory remarked dryly.

Roberts was back from the telephone. "Anderson has kept your notes for you," Lieutenant Gregory told him. "What did you find?"

"Ephraim Johnson has a record, all right. Fights. Robbery. Stolen automobile. Served two lifetimes on the gang. But nothing very recent. Told 'em to send out and take him to Grady."

"Okay," said Lieutenant Gregory. "And now about this piece of telephone wire. It might not be amiss if we had Mrs. Benedict come in and tell us how it found its way into her wastebasket."

I reached for the bell pull, then decided that I did not wish to call Anderson just then. He would still be protesting about red-hot coals. "She went upstairs just after lunch, I believe," I told Lieutenant Gregory. "I'll go for her myself."

Roberts, being near the door, rose to open it for me. But I did not pass through the door. Not just then. For at that moment there came from somewhere overhead the sound of a perfectly ghastly scream.

As we stood uncertainly, there was another scream, broken off suddenly. Then silence.

The Dart

"STAND back, everybody," ordered Lieutenant Gregory, drawing his revolver from its holster and dashing through the door as I shrank back into the room and attached myself to Bill. Roberts and Anderson were right behind their superior officer as he charged out and up the stairs.

And, of course, none of the rest of us stood back, though Bill did make an effort to park me in the library. By the time I reached the top of the stairs at the tail end of the procession, the police were coming out of mine and Bill's room, and crossing over to the other front bedroom, which was occupied by Eve.

"This time they did not come out and when I crowded in behind everyone else I understood why, for what I saw was a tableau of horror."

Eve, who evidently had decided to take an after-lunch siesta, lay motionless on the chaise longue, her face twisted in the awful agony of death. There was a dark red stain on the front of her white chiffon nightgown, a stain that spread and clashed oddly with the flame color of her negligee.

Standing over Eve as she lay there were Claire and Alice. Bill says that when he first reached the door, ahead of the police because he had not stopped to look into our room, Claire was holding Alice with both arms and had one hand over her mouth to stop her screaming.

"This, no doubt, is why that second scream had broken off in the middle."

"Hold on, there," warned Lieutenant Gregory as Bob and Kirk surged toward the two girls who were covering the back ward from the chaise longue. Someone turned on additional light and we saw what he meant. On the floor, where it might have dropped from Eve's hand, lay the feathered dart which she had brought up from the game room, "for protection."

Its steel pin was wedged with her own blood and even the pale yellow of the feather tips was beginning to be stained crimson.

"For God's sake, Bill," gasped Mr. Marshall, who had lumbered up the stairs just ahead of me, "what sort of place is this? What has happened to everybody since you came out here?"

I could well understand his horrified bewilderment, for my own knees knocked together and I put out a hand to the nearest shoulder in order to steady myself. The shoulder happened to belong to Roberts, and I was so embarrassed when I discovered this fact that I found myself quite able to stand without support, even to murmur an apology.

But he gave me a wintry half-smile that was almost human and said, "Pretty raw. Better go back downstairs, Mrs. Stuart."

The grisly sight which met our eyes seemed to me all the more awful somehow because of the setting. That stately old room in which my grandmother had died, less than a year ago had certainly known its joys and sorrows and all the things that go to make up normal living. But through the years no alien forces had been able to threaten the foundations of its dignity, never had there been wanton invasion of its privacy. And now, violence and murder.

Nobody replied to Mr. Marshall's question, for Anderson had stepped forward and was trying to find a pulse in Eve's wrist. After a moment he pulled back one of her eyelids and had a look at the pupil of the eye. "Dead," he said matter-of-factly.

I don't think I have ever seen anyone more angry than Lieutenant Gregory appeared when Anderson made his announcement. "All right," he barked, wheeling and facing us, his piercing dark eyes resting first on one and then another. "Which one of you did it?" It was plain to see that he didn't care very much for any of us just then.

Nobody said anything at all. Lieutenant Gregory turned to Roberts. "You and Anderson search the house and grounds. Check on the servants. Telephone and find out if anybody's come out from the solicitor's office. And tell 'em to send an ambulance."

"I will never know whether Bob meant to go to the assistance of Claire or of Alice, but with Lieutenant Gregory said 'Dead,' it was Alice who practically fell into Bob's arms. Perhaps we had all been too stunned to think until that moment Bill and Kirk, one on each side of her, led Claire from the room."

SCHOOL BOARD HOLDS MEETING AT YOUNGSVILLE

Youngsville, Dec. 12 — The home economics department under the direction of Miss Ostroski served a splendid dinner Monday evening to the members of the Youngsville School board and the directors of the industrial building.

At the meeting of the board of education which followed the dinner an election of officers was held which resulted in the election of Fred Beckenbach as president and L. L. Johnson as vice-president. The other officers of the board whose term of office continues until June are Secretary Noyd Engstrom and Treasurer Charles Spencer.

L. L. Johnson and Charles Dyer were appointed on the committee for buildings and grounds and R. L. Mead and Frank Hendrickson on the committee for supplies. A motion to have seats in the auditorium repaired where needed and arranged to the best advantage was passed.

There was some discussion but no action on a plan to make the term of the vocational home ec-

Cleveland Indians Get Jim Bagby In Three-cornered Deal

G. Walker, DeSautels Also Go To Tribe For Pytlak, Dobson, Hale

Cleveland, Dec. 13.—(P)—A seven-player shuffle in the American League set Cleveland Indians fans jabbering excitedly today about "Bagby" and "penant"—which mean the same in this city. The Cleveland-Boston-Washington trade, announced by the Indians' management, brings Jim Bagby, Jr., to the mound where his father, the immortal "Old Sarge" Bagby, hurled Cleveland to world championship in 1920.

Unscrambled, this is the three-cornered deal:

The Boston Red Sox sent Outfielder Roger Chalmers to the Washington Senators for Outfielder Gerald Walker.

That set the stage for Boston to send Bagby, Walker and Catcher Gene DeSautels to Cleveland for Catcher Frankie Pytlak, Infielder Ouel Hale and Pitcher Joe Dobson.

Old timers recall that Old Sarge turned in 31 victories in that 1920 season. Then he hit a three-run homer in the historic fifth game of the World Series with Brooklyn, in which Bill Wamby made his unassisted triple play and Elmer Smith chalked the first four-run homer in series annals.

Young Jim was born in Cleveland in 1916 while Old Jim was pitching for the Indians. Father

PAIR OF BENS IN MIAMI OPEN LEAD

Miami, Fla., Dec. 13.—(P)—A couple of guys named Ben paced the field into the second round of the $10,000 Miami Open golf tournament today—each with a three-under-par 67.

One of them—Ben Hogan of White Plains, N. Y.—tightened his grip on the year's money-winning title. The other—Ben Loving of Springfield, Mass.—began his strongest bid for a tournament victory after years of campaigning.

Close in the pursuit of the two Bens came Ed Dudley of Augusta, Ga., and Clayton Heafner of Linville, N. C., with 68's.

Sam Snead of Hot Springs, Va., still hopeful of wresting the money title and the Vardon trophy from Hogan, trailed by two shots at 69 with six others.

Two DUKE GRIDDERS WIN ANNUAL AWARD

Pittsburgh, Dec. 13.—(P)—Competition was so keen amongst Duquesne's once-defeated football players this season that it was hard to pick the winner of the Samuel A. Weiss award, presented annually to the senior griddy excelling in scholarship, character and athletic ability.

So Congressmen-elect Weiss decided to present two trophies, instead of one. The gold wrist-watches were awarded last night to Guard Bill Nopper and Halfback Allan Donelli, brother of Duquesne's coach, Buff Donelli.

Jinx Day Works in Reverse

Ken Overlin had no fear of Friday the 13th as he ended training for defense of New York version of world middleweight championship on that night against Mike Belloise at Madison Square Garden.

SPORT SCATTERINGS

By Bill Rice

When Ken Overlin defends his New York version of the world middleweight championship tonight at Madison Square Garden, with Steve Belloise his opponent, there will be many besides your correspondent who will be wondering why Billy Soose isn't in there. Young William, who learned how to handle his dukes at State College, under the tutelage of Leo Houck, has already whipped Overlin in a non-title class, and also decisively Tony Zale, N. B. A. middleweight crown-holder, but neither Zale nor Overlin has offered to risk the belt with the ex-Niutany Lion puncher. Unfortunately, our William isn't pledged to Uncle Mike's concerned Billy can go fly a kite. At the last meeting of Overlin and Belloise, Steve had Ken on the deck and won a draw from the referee. Overlin, however, was favored by the two judges, as thousands boomed. Most experts believe the champion is a little too smart for Steve and pick him to repeat his earlier victory. From this corner comes a hesitant ballot for Belloise to batter out a decision. We haven't picked a long shot in some time, anyway.

It seems that we owe a big apology to the Get Together Club, a team of juvenile court stars who call the Y. M. C. A. hardware their home. A few days ago we received a box score which showed the C. T. C. cagers beaten, and we published the score in good faith. A day or so later, we received another sheet which claimed that the subjects of this sketch had dubbed a group of older boys—the same bunch which claimed to have won. Our curiosity aroused, we investigated and found that the Get Together Five had finished on top and the other team had hurried down here with a spurious score. So to Messrs. Blair, Bonace, Davis, Hubbs and Matthews should go the apologies of the other club. Maybe we'd better do it for them and ourselves, too.

With six lettermen back, Edinboro Teachers are looking forward to another big year on the court. This ought to be good news to a lot of local fans, for Edinboro has drawn heavily on Warren's athletic crop, and since pro basketball and football have occupied the local sport scene, Warren has drafted many of the Red Raiders. Coach Sox Harrison has a wealth of material, and alumni and undergrads are confident that Edinboro will cop the mythical Pennsylvania teachers college championship, in which they shared a half interest with Slippery Rock last season. Harrison's quint already has come through against fast competition—a 45-44 victory over DeSales, winner of the Michigan-Ontario Conference the past two years.

YEARS AGO IN SPORT

December 12, 1920.—The headlock won over the scissor last night as Ed "Strangler" Lewis, champion, Joe Stecher as heavy-weight "catch-as-catch-can" wrestling champion. The men wrestled one hour and 47 minutes before Lewis took the fall. The men wrestled one hour and 47 minutes before Lewis took the fall.

New York, Dec. 13.—When the Carolina-Duke game, he was a bit surprised to find his pastboards called for seats in the colored section. Oh, Oh! Mebbe this is one of the first results of the football deamphasizing program—"Yale, Dartmouth to clash at chess."

Only One Guess, When the Fort Worth Star-Telegram picked its All-Southwest Conference eleven, it didn't bother to name John Kimbrough, but merely said "guess who."

Training, Hank Luisetti, the basket ball star, must have laughed right out loud when the A. A. U. decided he had been punished long enough and reinstated him. If the specialists decide Billy Jurgens can't short stop for the Giants this year, he's all set, with plenty of backing, to open a recreation center.

Names In The News, Pepper Martin, now Sacramento manager, is the baseball rave of the entire coast. A Los Angeles paper, 700 miles away, gave the kid boy a half page spread. The N. DRAGON CAGERS Belloise Shoots At Overlin's Title In Garden Ring Tonight

New York, Dec. 13.—(P)—Having been chosen "most likely to succeed" by the fight critics after his first experience with Ken Overlin six weeks ago, young Steve Belloise of the Bronx will have another shot at the middleweight champ tonight at Madison Square Garden.

Steve earned the respect of the fight crowd by knocking Overlin very flat in the sixth round of their first meeting and then whaling far out of Overlin when he got up. It was a tribute to Overlin's gameness that he weathered the beating and came on to win the decision at the end of 15 rounds.

That was Belloise's first 15-rounder, and he said the only reason he let Overlin get away in the sixth was that he was afraid of wearing himself out early in the evening and not having anything left for the late stages.

From the ringside, though, it looked like Steve punched himself out. For nearly two minutes he had the ex-savior virtually at his mercy, and he poured a withering

Except for the Times-Mirror's jump from sixth place to a tie for fourth, there were no changes in the standings of the Loyal Knight league at the Elks Club. The Publishers moved up with a three-pointer over Denny Cochran's Barbers, materially assisted by the city editor's startling (and unprecedented) 603. The league-leading Kirbagers took four from Beckley's to improve their advantage, while the second-place New Process copped three from the Darling Jewelers. Hultman's Tailors, who hold down third spot, took three from Harvey & Carey, deadlocking the Goldman crew with the Times-Mirror. Nick Anderson's 224 is high single with Hildum's 603 being top total.

ing to find a way out. "On the other hand, had weather hindered not only their activity but also Italian transport."

Strategic heights northeast of Tepeleni are in Greek hands today, a government spokesman said, as Greek troops thrust a two-pronged drive in the direction of Valona, one of three Albanian ports still held by Italian forces.

The drive toward both Tepeleni and the coastal town of Chimara, north of the captured port of Port of Edda, continued steadily, he said. Chimara is about 30 miles south of Valona, while Tepeleni, an inland city, is about the same distance to the southeast.

A reconnaissance pilot reported yesterday that Valona, second only to Durazzo in importance to the Fascists, had been made virtually useless for large vessels by bombs which smashed piers and jetties.

yesterday when an overheated stove in the residence of Glen Pastman, 7 Madison avenue, caused a partition to catch fire. Eastman was sleeping on a davenport in the room at the time. Firemen confined the blaze to a small area and the damage was reported as small by Fire Chief Kropf.

The third fire occurred at 11:33 o'clock this morning at the residence of Louis Christensen, 103 West Wayne street, when a cigarette set fire to a davenport and rug. Damage was estimated by the fire chief at between $50 and $75.

MANUFACTURERS NAME FULLER AS PRESIDENT

Philadelphia, Dec. 13.—(AP)—

Walter D. Fuller, whose first publishing job was selling fashion patterns from house to house, today became the second Pennsylvanian in a row to head the National Association of Manufacturers.

Fuller, president of the Curtis Publishing Company, was elected yesterday in New York to succeed H. W. Prentiss, Jr., of Lancaster, who heads the Armstrong Cork Company.

Pittsburgh, Dec. 13.—(AP)—George Pearson Rhodes, Sr., president of the Castalia Portland Cement Company and prominent Pittsburgh industrialist, died last night. He was 69.

GALLARNEAU VERSATILE

Palo Alto, Calif., Dec. 13.—Hugh Gallarneau, backfield star of Rose Bowl-bound Stanford, won the school's heavyweight boxing title last season, and is intramural 100-yard sprint champion. A pilot with 25 hours' solo time, he hopes to go into commercial aviation.

Elizabethtown, Pa., Dec. 13.—

(AP)—A deputy game warden in this Lancaster county section still is trying to figure out how a deer with a set of 14-point antlers could be so skinny.

Claude Ishler could explain. He wired an old set of antlers on the head of a 100-pound doe he had shot just before the warden passed.

that the earlier figure of 20,444 Italian prisoners taken since Monday was likely to prove an under-estimate when a more accurate tally is possible. (London sources estimated that the number might reach 40,000.)

The British victory at Sidi Barrani has broken any immediate threat to the Suez Canal, British military quarters said.

There was no indication yet how far the British intend to press home the advantages they have won or whether they will try to push across the Libyan border into Italian territory. But they were reof 274,921 American Labor votes. His 1932 total was 22,821,857. Willkie's popular vote was the largest ever given a Republican nominee, winner or loser. It included 22,428 Independent Democratic votes in Georgia and 2,496 Jeffersonian Democrat votes in South Carolina. The previous record Republican vote was 21,392,190 for Herbert Hoover over Alfred E. Smith in 1928.

Only 239,459 votes were cast this year for minor party candidates. This was their smallest showing since 1924, when they polled 121,587, not counting the vote cast for the LaFollette third party ticket. There was no so-called "third party" in the field this year.

The total popular vote was 4,161,507 above the previous record of 4,017,117 in 1936 and 9,992,103 more than the 1932 total of 39,315,922. It was within one-fifth of one per cent of the 4,718,200 estimated by the Associated Press on Oct. 24 as the probable vote this year. The AP's pre-election estimate four years ago was 40,473,000, which was within two-fifths of one per cent of the actual vote.

President Roosevelt's plurality was the smallest since Woodrow Wilson's 591,385 in 1916, and represented a recession from his 11,072,014 and 7,060,016 margins in 1936 and 1932, respectively. But his electoral vote of 448 to 82 for Willkie was exceeded only by his own 523 to 8 and 472 to 56 victories in his two previous elections. Otherwise the closest approach was Hoover's 444 to 87 in 1928.

Roosevelt carried 38 states. Willkie's pluralities were in Colorado, Indiana, Iowa, Kansas, Maine, Michigan, Nebraska, North Dakota, South Dakota, and Vermont.

The president's percentage of the total vote was 54.7; Willkie's 44.8, and minor party candidates 0.5. Roosevelt's 1936 percentage was 60.8; 1932, 57.3.

Texas gave Roosevelt the largest plurality of any state—640,989. Wyoming gave him the smallest—6,654. Willkie's biggest plurality was in Kansas—124,435; his smallest in Michigan—6,926.

Roosevelt's New York plurality was cut from 1,112,552 four years ago to 224,440 this year. The 1940 American Labor Party vote was nearly twice as large as Roosevelt's plurality in New York. Democratic leaders contend, however, that Roosevelt would have received all of the A. L. P. vote as Democrats if the separate party had not been organized in 1936. With out the A. L. P. votes, Roosevelt's total would have been 192,978 less than Willkie's in New York.

The poor showing of the minor parties was attributed in part to failure to get on many state ballots. Communists were barred by some states. Other parties failed to get the necessary number of signatures for qualifying petitions. Minor party ballots were not counted in North Carolina, the election board holding no elections had been filed.

Nazis Aim Blows In Midlands

The ministry also reported an attack by a British plane on "an enemy supply ship" off the Dutch coast last night in which "a direct hit on the ship was obtained."

Other bombing operations of the Royal Air Force were cancelled last night owing to unfavorable weather, said another announcement.

Sheffield, a city of about 500,000 population, was famed for its cutlery for six centuries. It is 140 miles north of London.

Other parts of the Midlands were hit and London had an alert which lasted most of the night, but there was little air activity in the capital after a mist developed midway in the night.

LOSES ARM Carlisle, Dec. 12.—(P.)—Chester Sherman, 23, of Landsburg, Perry county, caught his right arm in a corn shredder today on the farm of his father, Roy Sherman. The arm was amputated at the elbow at the Carlisle hospital, where his condition was described as "fair" though he was suffering from shock and loss of blood.

Early American colonists mixed fruits with their potatoes and then cooked the mixture with sugar for variety.
